

Kingsborough Making Strides Against Breast Cancer

By Marjorie Chocolad and Sandra Alcy
Contributing Writers

On Sunday, October 20, 2002, approximately a dozen members of the Kingsborough "family" joined hundreds of walkers in Prospect Park, Brooklyn for a 3 1/2 mile walk around the park.

The weather was perfect for the early morning stroll and it was a day that we will always remember.

It was the first time that the American Cancer Society conducted "The Walk" in the borough of Brooklyn and it was our first time participating in the walk.

"Making Strides Against Breast Cancer" was this year's theme for the annual walk.

It is conducted every year during the month of October, most noticeably in Central Park, Manhattan, to bring attention to breast cancer and to raise money for research and finding a cure.

With the help of the HELM Center, the Women's Center and individual continued on page 6