

Professional Organizations

- American Association for the Treatment of Opioid Dependence, Inc

<https://www.aatod.org/>

The American Association for the Treatment of Opioid Dependence (AATOD) is a U.S.-based nonprofit organization founded in 1984 that works to improve the quality of care for people with opioid use disorder. It represents more than a thousand opioid treatment programs and advocates for evidence-based treatment services, policies, and expanded access to care. AATOD also collaborates with government agencies and international partners while hosting conferences and producing resources to support professionals in the addiction treatment field.

- International Society of Substance Use Professionals

<https://www.issup.net/about-issup/membership>

The International Society of Substance Use Professionals (ISSUP) is a global network that connects people working in substance use prevention, treatment, and recovery. It offers free membership with access to training, professional development resources, and networking opportunities to support the substance use workforce.

- The Association for Addiction Professionals

<https://www.naadac.org/>

NAADAC, the Association for Addiction Professionals is a nonprofit professional organization that represents more than 100,000 addiction counselors, educators, and other addiction focused healthcare professionals in the United States and internationally. It supports the addiction treatment workforce through certification, advocacy, and professional development to improve prevention, treatment, and recovery services for individuals and communities affected by substance use disorders.

- Stop Stigma Now

<https://www.stopstigmanow.org/>

Stop Stigma Now is a nonprofit organization dedicated to reducing stigma and misinformation surrounding medication treatment for opioid use disorder. It promotes public education, advocacy, and professional outreach to increase understanding and access to evidence based treatments such as methadone and buprenorphine.

- New York State Office of Addiction Services and Supports

<https://oasas.ny.gov/jobs>

The New York State Office of Addiction Services and Supports (OASAS) is the state agency responsible for overseeing addiction prevention, treatment, harm reduction, and recovery services across New York. Its jobs page highlights employment opportunities within the agency and at state-run treatment centers, encouraging professionals to join the addiction services workforce and help support individuals affected by substance use disorders.