

Professional Organizations

- National Wellness Institute

<https://members.nationalwellness.org/page/StudentChapters>

The National Wellness Institute helps groups of college students explore careers in wellness and health promotion. They provide support toward healthcare fields by connecting them with professional leadership opportunities and internships. Student chapters are led by a faculty advisor and are designed to help students build skills and connections while promoting wellness on campus. Students can explore the Certified Wellness Practitioner (CWP) credential pathway, which complements the wellness foundations established in HPE 1200, COH 1600, HS 5200, HS 4000, and HE 4200.

- American Public Health Association

<https://www.apha.org/membership/student-membership>

The American Public Health Association has career resources and discounted registration for APHA events. Student memberships also automatically include participation in the Student Assembly and CareerMart, they're one of the largest student-led public health organizations in the country. They help students connect with peers and professionals in the field. Members additionally receive access to publications and mentoring opportunities designed to support students as they begin careers in public health.

- New York State Public Health Association

<https://www.nyspha.org/join-now>

The New York State Public Health Association is a statewide public health organization affiliated with the American Public Health Association. The membership programs they offer has benefits like internships, scholarships and webinars with ways to connect to public health professionals and policymakers. Students who live outside the NYC/NYS area may seek advisement from the Program Director regarding options for membership in their state of residence.

