

Professional Organizations

- National Association of Social Workers

<https://www.socialworkers.org/Membership/Membership-Types>

The National Association of Social Workers offers a range of membership categories for people at different stages of social work and related fields, including regular, student, transitional, associate, and retired options. Community College students can join as Associate Student Members, giving them access to resources, networking, professional development, and various benefits.

- American Psychological Association

<https://www.apa.org/members/your-membership/undergraduate>

The American Psychological Association offers an Undergraduate Student Affiliate membership that is open to all undergraduates eligible to apply, giving students access to professional resources, publications, networking, and career development in psychology. This membership helps students stay connected to the field, access exclusive content, and prepare for future academic and professional opportunities in psychology.

