How Do You SoTL: An Editor's Perspective on Going Public with the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning

In doing SoTL, faculty focus the lens of scholarly inquiry onto teaching and learning—asking questions, collecting and interpreting data, and making their findings public. At KCC, research in SoTL published in peer-reviewed journals counts toward tenure and promotion.

This interactive workshop with Dr. Laura Cruz, Editor-in-Chief of MountainRise, a venerable SoTL journal, will take you through the SoTL journey, from idea to publication, and give you a sense of SoTL past, present, and future along the way.

WHEN

Thur., January 27th, 12-4pm
Lunch will be served!

WHERE

Terrace Room, V219

Topics covered include how to talk about SoTL, how to find SoTL publication outlets, how to write what editors and readers want to read, what different forms SoTL can take, and more. Dr. Cruz will help you to navigate your own SoTL journey and to help you answer the question, how do YOU SoTL?
