

Working with Multilingual Learners Across the Curriculum, with Vivian Zamel (University of Massachusetts) and Ruth Spack (Bentley University) (offered in collaboration with the Department of English's ESL Program)

THE KINGSBOROUGH CENTER FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING (KCTL)
IS PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE
A FACULTY DEVELOPMENT EVENT

WORKING WITH MULTILINGUAL LEARNERS ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Friday, October 28, 2005

Educating a linguistically diverse student body raises pedagogical concerns. While ESL faculty are trying to understand the academic challenges that learners will face beyond their ESL courses, faculty in other disciplines are trying to meet the challenges presented by the growing number of undergraduate learners of differing linguistic backgrounds.

Join us for a day of conversation and exchange of ideas about best practices for multilingual students with

Vivian Zamel and Ruth Spack

editors of

Crossing the Curriculum: Multilingual Learners in College Classrooms

Special Guest Speaker:
Professor John Fanselow, President
International Pacific College, Palmerston North, New Zealand

Please R.S.V.P. kcfl@kingsborough.edu