

About Academic Search

For nearly five decades, Academic Search has been a mission-driven organization dedicated to expanding leadership capacity at higher education institutions. Academic Search strengthens colleges and universities through the identification, recruitment, and development of leaders.

As the first executive search firm dedicated to higher education, Academic Search brings a deep understanding of the evolving challenges and opportunities within the higher education landscape. They understand that leadership transitions can be both energizing and stressful times for institutional communities and strive to guide leaders and institutions through these changes from the placement of the leader to support throughout the leadership life cycle.

The Academic Search team is composed of higher education leaders who bring a wealth of knowledge and expansive networks. Through this experience, they are uniquely positioned to understand, appreciate, and address the specific needs of each institution they partner with.
